The home of Miss Fannle Wood, No. of west Clay street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 9 o'clock last night, when Miss Maud Beatrice Kemp became the bride of Mr. Louis Stuart Mayo. The parlors were picturesquely decorated with ferns and lanterns, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Fenner S. Stickney before an improvised altar, which was covered with cutflowers. Two ribbon-boys with white streamers formed an aisle, up which the wedding party passed to the strains of wedding-march from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Perkins.

The bride entered upon the arm of her father, by whom she was given away She wore a handsome dress of white organdie, trimmed with real lace, and ded a large bouquet of bride's roses The bridegroom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. Edward Mayo. The bridal party was preceded to the altar by Messrs. Percy Carter and Clarence Palmore, who acted as ushers, and followed by little Marie Carter, who carried the wedding ring on a solid silver salver, which had been presented to the bride's father by the Mayor of Southampton, ling., for saving his life in 1884. During the ceremony Mrs. Perkins played De-Koven's "O, Promise Me."

An informal reception was held after the wedding ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs Meyo left on the 10:40 train to spend their honeymoon between Natural Bridge, the White Sulphur, and the Blue

WAR AGAINST FILTH.

Police Have Opened Hostilitles Against Paper and Filth.

The police of this city have inaugurated war upon all those persons who are disposed to make flithy her streets, and are going to adopt no puerile methods to put an end to this nuisance of making the thoroughfares waste-baskets and garbage-an end to this numeroe of making the thoroughfares waste-baskets and garbage-barrels.

Officer Austin brought the first of this numerous class of offenders before the shrine of the White Temple yesterday morning, and a warning portion of justice was meted out to them. The prisoners were Sonny Terrell, Winston James, Henry Bradley, Philip Hilton, and Daniel Walker. They are all negro porters employed down-town, and were seen sweeping trash into the street by the policeman, but Winston James was the only one seen sweeping dirt from a store. He was fined $1. The others swept off pavements, and in doing so broke no law.

Officer Hannon reported Hicks & Howard for making trash in front of their store, but the charge was dismissed.

Justice John gave them a lecture, and said in course of it that the streets of Richmond must be kept clean, or better, that they should not be made filthy. He ruled that goods must not be opened in front of stores, if trash was made, unless the dirt was removed at once, and cautioned parties to be careful to gather up all trash around their places of labor.

The remaining cases were unimportant.

Police Recover Fine Bicycles.

Police Recover Fine Bicycles.

Two splendid bicycles (racers) have been recovered here, and are being held by the Richmond police. They are supposed to belong to two Boston firms, which were recently the victims of a negro thief of Richmond. The negro obtained them by passing himself off as Major Taylor, the crack negro bicycle-rider. He gave a three-days note in each instance, and in this way secured three wheels and slipped out of Boston by the next boat. One of the bicycles was disposed of, and the others brought to Richmond. Detectives Gibson and Hall got wind of the theft and captured the wheels, which are being held until further developments.

News of the City-Hall Courts. P. I. Powers, the young white man who was arrested some weeks ago charged with stealing sewing-machines, and who was convicted and sent to jail by Justice Crutchfield, appealed, and was before the Hustings Court yesterday morning. His attorney, Mr. P. St. George Barraud, moved to quash the cartificate on the ground of irregularities, and his motion was sustained by Judge Witt, and the prisoner was discharged. Powers was, however, arrested yesterday by Detectives Tomlinson and Gibson on the charge of stealing a machine from Eliza Nash, and he will again face Justice John.

In the City Circuit Court yesterday, in the case of A. Miller against Robins & Co., the jury found the following verdict: "We, the jury, upon the issue joined, find on the plea of non-assumpsit for the defendants, and on the plea of offset, find for the plaintiff."

Judgment was confessed in the City Circuit Court in the case of Peter Paul against W. C. McDowell for $60.61.
